SHRINK FROM TEST

MUTILATED HEROES FEAR REPULSION IN EYES OF LOVED ONES LEFT AT HOME

David Young, whose return to Glendale from overseas was noted in last Saturday's Evening News, says that the saddest aftermath of the war, to him, was the sight of hundreds of mutilated American boys who say they will never come home again to be a burden to their families. They seem to have the strange, morbid idea that their scarred faces, blinded eyes, burned bodies or mutilated legs and arms will be repulsive to their nearest and dearest ones—parents, brothers, sisters, sweethearts, and they say they will live abroad on their pensions the rest of their days rather than face the look of repulsion they mistakenly suppose will be on the faces of their loved ones. Tender, loving nurses tell them, comrades and officers assure them that this is a false idea, that their seared bodies, their blinded eyes and their scarred features are but glorious badges of honor and that in the eyes of their dear ones these wounds are far above beauty of face or form. It is possible that time may soften this feeling in the hearts of some of these heroes who thus laid all on the altar of sacrifice for humanity's highest ideals, but many will never change in this respect, Sergt. Young firmly believes.

NOW AN INSTRUCTOR IN SANTA MONICA SCHOOLS

At a recent meeting of the Board of Education of Santa Monica, Prof. Alfred Cookman, Ornithologist, and former teacher of Biology and Agriculture in the Long Beach Polytechnic High School, was unanimously elected Supervisor of Agriculture and Science in the Santa Monica Schools. Prof. Cookman resigned from the Long Beach faculty last June to enter the service. He graduated from the University of Southern California and has studied at Yale. He was appointed an Assistant Instructor of Biology in Yale University, but resigned his position because Uncle Sam needed his service at U. S. General Hospital, No. 35, in West Baden, Indiana, as a Clinical Diagnostician. Prof. Cookman will take up his teaching profession in the fall at Santa Monica.

PRETTY HOME WEDDING

GEO. W. LOWENSTEIN, FORMERLY OF LA CRESCENTA, WEDS MISS FLORENCE PENWELL

A very pretty wedding took place Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at 205 West Lomita avenue, the home of the groom's mother, when George W. Lowenstein, formerly of La Crescenta, and Miss Florence A. Penwell of Los Angeles were united in marriage.

Fern balls and a huge basket of Shasta daisies formed a canopy beneath which the bridal party were stationed while the words which united the young people, who have been friends from childhood, were spoken by Rev. W. E. Edmonds, who officiated, and who used the ring ceremony.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was attired in white organdy and carried a shower bouquet of white sweet peas and maidenhair fern and wore a white picture hat. Her maid of honor, Miss Ethel Lowenstein, sister of the groom, also wore a gown of white and large, white Leghorn hat trimmed with pink, her bouquet being of pink Duchess roses. Charles Scott, of Los Angeles, a special friend of the groom, was best man.

Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served to the sixteen guests present, all relatives or close friends of the bride and groom, the bridal party being seated at a special table centered with blue and pink bachelor buttons.

Mr. and Mrs. Lowenstein left the same evening for a brief honeymoon trip and on their return will be at home to their friends in Azusa, where Mr. Lowenstein conducts a dairy business.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

CAPT. AND MRS. D. RIPLEY JACKSON CELEBRATE 20 YEARS OF HAPPY WEDDED LIFE

One of the most elaborate social functions which has been enjoyed in Glendale in recent years took place Saturday evening at the spacious home of Mr. and Mrs. D. Ripley Jackson at 214 East Chestnut street, which in its lavish decoration with palms, ferns and flowers of every description, under the mellow radiance of electric lights, made a very beautiful setting for the affair. It was a celebration of the twentieth anniversary of their happy marriage, and was primarily a dancing party although some fine musical numbers were given during the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Parker, Mrs. Mabel Capell and the host himself contributing vocal solos which were greatly enjoyed. This part of the program reached its climax when St. Mark's choir united in singing to the tune of "Auld Lang Syne" the following song composed by Miss Ina Whitaker as a prelude to the presentation of a very beautiful loving cup of china with gold decoration:

Tho' empty seems this loving cup,
It's really overflowing,
With kindly thoughts and wishes true,
Beyond our power of showing;
And tho' the gift itself is small,
A wealth of love is in it,
May peace and plenty e'er be yours,
And sunshine every minute.
Amen!

At the close of the song the cup was presented by Mrs. Mabel Capell as the gift of the choir in appreciation of the hospitality of host and hostess in entertaining the choir on rehearsal nights and contributing in other ways to the work it is trying to do for St. Mark's. The presentation, speech was in verse, composed by Mrs. Capell as follows:

From the merry, merry choristers
Who tripping in each week
To warble chants and other things
And eat our hostess' cake;
And trip the light fantastic
Until it's very late,
And then a joy-ride homeward
A little sleep to take.

But for our host and hostess,
A sad lot we would be,
A-singing in the Sunday School
Our chants so dimly,
The other things we could not sing
Nor have the comedy
Our boyish host so well supplies
Which makes our hearts so gay and free.

Another special program number was an Irish Jig in solo by Miss Esther Ralston. The balance of the evening was devoted to dancing, a delicious supper of several courses being served at midnight.

The beautiful costumes of the ladies added to the brilliance of the scene, the hostess looking very handsome in a gown of black and gold net over peacock blue satin. Other notable costumes were: Miss Dorothy Hunt, white silk; Mrs. J. D. Fraser, black satin; Mrs. E. Coddington, white lace and pink silk; Mrs. H. H. Faries, robin's egg blue silk; Mrs. Freeman Kelley, pink charmeuse; Ruth Wilson, cream satin; Dorothy Baird, white net over white satin; Mrs. Charles Parker, black net over yellow satin; Mrs. Mabel Capell, white silk embroidered with pink rosebuds; Miss Esther Ralston, white silk with gold embroidery.

The full guest list included: Messrs. and Mesdames H. H. Faries, Alton Smith, Charles Parker, Freeman Kelley, L. G. Silberberg, A. Burson, Clyde Carmack, Charles U. Wells, Captain and Mrs. W. H. Watters, Mrs. Pearl Keller, Misses Ruth Wilson, Dorothy Hunt, Esther Ralston, Dorothy Salyer, Dorothy Baird, Virginia Whitman; Clarence Ralston, Godfrey Parker, Jack Alspaugh, Albert Sullivan; Misses Ina Whitaker and Gertrude Champlain, Mesdames Mabel Capell and Campbell, and Mr. and Mrs. Ringquist, all of Glendale. Guests from elsewhere were: Col. and Mrs. J. D. Fraser, Capt. and Mrs. Glen Carender, Mrs. Margaret Coddington and Miss Ethel Coddington of Hollywood; Mr. and Mrs. H. Turner of Pasadena.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson were the recipients of many beautiful gifts of hand painted china.

BAD STATE OF AFFAIRS IN RUSSIA

TROTSKY ISSUES STATEMENT ABOUT TRIUMPHS OF SOVIET FORCES EVERYWHERE

BUDAPEST, June 30. (Special Copyright by United Press).—Leon Trotsky, the Russian War Minister, has sent a wireless statement to the United Press declaring that the allied attack on Petrograd had been beaten off. The statement further declares that Germany seized territory on the Russian western front under the guise of protecting small nations, and that the entente powers are doing the same thing on Russia's western front. Trotsky also said in the same communication that on the southern front soviet forces had defeated General Krassnoff's army which had supported the "entente imperialists."

'NEATH EVENING SKY

FIRST OUTDOOR MEETING OF CENTRAL CHRISTIAN CONGREGATION A SUCCESS

At the suggestion of the pastor, Rev. Clifford A. Cole, who had tried the experiment in former charges with marked success, the official board of the Central Christian Church voted to hold the Sunday evening service on the grounds just south of the church building, and Sunday night, June 29th, was the first of the outdoor meetings.

The morning unified service opened with the Bible School session of an hour and then was merged at once into regular worship. Choir singing led by Mr. Wells of the Bible Institute, was a feature of this service. The sermon was on the subject, "The Greater Triumph," dealing with Paul's life and sufferings for the Master and his triumphal end. Lessons in right living for Christians of today were drawn.

When the congregation and friends gathered in the evening, seats were found arranged outside, the pulpit was mounted on a rostrum made of four tables, the choir had a large platform for their accommodation and one of the church organs was advantageously placed. After a song service, led by Mr. Wells, the pastor preached on "The Ugliness of Envy," or, as it might be stated, "Envy, the First Cousin of Covetousness." The story of Aaron's and Miriam's envy and jealousy of their brother Moses and the awful punishment of Miriam, was briefly sketched—and the prevalence of envy among people today dwelt upon. Envy not only warps the disposition and endangers the soul's life, but casts a blight upon one's surroundings. The envious man is never happy and envy leads to covetousness, the blackest sin in the calendar, for it results inevitably in theft and sometimes murder.

The audience was considerably larger than usual, and it was decided to continue the experiment as long as the weather permits. Owing to the decided coolness on this first occasion, men were told to keep their hats on if they wished and many did so.

Edmonds and wife will go down, accompanied by Martha Eilers, Mabel Prendeville and Louise Hoyt.

DELIVERS ADDRESS FROM DECK OF DIRIGIBLE

Saturday's dispatches tell of a great throng of people at a Methodist Centenary celebration at Columbus, Ohio, being addressed through a megaphone by Dr. Edmund D. Soper, from the deck of an army dirigible, the A-4, which was held stationary 300 feet in air for the purpose. The speaker is the son of our own Dr. Julius Soper, beloved pastor of the Casa Verdugo M. E. Church. The younger Soper recently returned from a mission to Japan in the interests of the Centenary movement and visited his father here while en route east.

CONVALESCENT HOSPITAL IN PRESCOTT, ARIZONA

H. J. Horn and wife of 611 South Brand boulevard were in Long Beach last week to see their son Harry, who had just returned from Prescott, Ariz., where he helped install the electric motors in a great convalescent hospital for returned soldiers Uncle Sam has just completed. There are already in the hospital 1500 tubercular and gassed patients, who receive the tenderest care possible. Many of them have been saved from a lingering death by the improved methods introduced into hospitals like this.

TOUR AND CAMP

MR. AND MRS. MORRIS COOK AND PARTY MOTOR TO FRISCO. VISIT YOSEMITE EN ROUTE

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Cook of 1519 South Brand boulevard, their daughter Doris and their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gardner, have returned from a thoroughly delightful auto and camping trip in the course of which they visited the Yosemite Valley and were guests at Camp Curry. There as elsewhere in the valley it was tremendously crowded. While the camp has dining accommodations for 1500 people, so great was the crush of guests they were fed in three relays, necessitating waits of an hour and a half in some instances. The Sunday before the party left, 300 people came into the valley for whom no accommodations were available and all equipment was leased until the middle of July. Of course the opening of the valley to automobiles has made an immense difference in the travel, but Mrs. Cook thinks its popularity this year is also due to the campaign for the Yosemite Highway and the $5 permits sold by the Southern California Auto Association for entrance into the Park which, it is expected, will roll up quite a fund, to be supplemented by appropriations from the Federal government to build a paved highway on the floor of the valley making access easy. Many purchasers of these permits are using them this year, hence the crowd. While there Mr. and Mrs. Cook and their friends explored on horseback many of the trails and visited Inspiration Point where the most wonderful view of the valley is to be obtained. Of course there were other pleasures when the guests, many of whom were professional theatrical people, gathered about the big bonfire in the evening and watched the more distant bonfire fall over the cliff in a cascade of fire, or joined the dancers before seeking their beds where they found need of plenty of blankets, as the nights were cold. One morning while they were there the mercury recorded 30 degrees.

They also camped at Wawona and visited the Mariposa Grove of Big Trees, the "oldest vegetable citizens of the world," trees which were standing when Moses lay in the bulrushes. From the Yosemite they went on to Oakland and San Francisco, where they returned to conventional life and patronized hotels, and where they met Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Paine and son, Ralph, who were former residents of Glendale. They returned via the coast route, camping by the way instead of patronizing the hotels, and are delighted with their experiences and the comfort and independence they enjoyed.

NEW LIBRARY BOOKS

STORY HOUR AT CITY LIBRARY AT 9 A. M. WEDNESDAY—SPECIAL BOOK PRIVILEGES

Mrs. Danford, City Librarian, announces that the summer time story hour for little folk will be resumed next Wednesday at 9 o'clock, when the library will be closed for one hour to all but the small boys and girls who come to hear the story.

Miss Lillian Schick will tell the stories next week. She has been taking a kindergarten course and has donated her services because she loves the work.

After the stories the children will be instructed in the use of the library and how to find the books reserved especially for them.

New books have recently been added to the library which include two juveniles by Burgess of the "Bedtime Series," entitled "Adventures of Old Buzzard" and "Adventures of Bob White."

"Jim: A Story of a Dog" by Maj. Charles G. D. Roberts is another fine animal story by an author and naturalist whose books while written primarily for children are entertaining to adults as well.

As the public naturally expects of purchasers at this season, there are a good many books for light summer reading and Mrs. Danford states that because the library wishes to serve its patrons in vacation times as well as other periods, card holders will be allowed to take books on short vacations and to renew them if necessary by postal card addressed to her at the library.

Not all the new books are ready for the shelves. There are still some non-fiction works to be prepared for circulation, but a good many are in shape to be taken out by readers. The list as prepared by Mrs. Danford includes the following:

WHAT SORT OF A DOG IS TIGE?

There are small Dogs—Really worth while.
Others are vicious, snarly and mean.
We extend them our insignificant smile,
This camouflaged canine is only a dream.

Now "Tige" is a name that's applied
To the mastiff or other large breeds
That are noted. On them, man has relied.
Like man they are judged by their deeds.

This "Tige" has presumed to assume
Characteristic of a really good dog.
Instinct is a factor, Tige is immune,
Vision eclipsed in an intellectual fog.

This "Tige" has a wife who belongs to a club,
We assume she's domestic, as "Tige" gave us a tip.
She gives aid to the Ladies in cooking them grub,
Also came through in war times by doing her bit.

"Tige" is sure blest in thus having a mate,
A real public spirited American girl,
Whose discernment is right up to date,
The kind that aids in life's busy whirl.

"Tige" has mentioned the Masons and Elks,
Seemingly proud of all they have achieved.
His generosity our sympathy melts.
Poor old "Tige" too bad you're deceased.

He voted for lights on our public streets.
Think of that, and ponder, then grin.
No doubt he boasts of this to all whom he greets.
For today we would be in darkness but for him.

Now "Tige" seems grieved, yes he is sore,
A man is a sucker to preach Annexation.
Our City is doomed, yes dead to the core,
For "Tige" believes in foreordination.

Now "Tige" once lived a rural life,
No license required, think of his joys
Where gophers and ground squirrels are free.
For he speaks of that Hamlet "Van Nuys."

To you, whose business is selling the land,
"Tige" seems unfriendly and barks.
Seems you were guilty of selling him sand,
For he calls you "Real Estate Sharks."

"Tige" speaks of losing his rights,
That we are going right up the flume,
That we would lose our water and lights,
That Annexation would seal our doom.

"Tige" speaks of our streets so clean and neat.
These are commendable as far as they go;
But I really think that "Tige's" been asleep,
For if he drives, he's going darned slow.

Water we believe is the nectar of life,
Transportation is a factor we know,
The phone has been causing us strife,
And without a sewer we never will grow.

So we will climb in that booster boat,
Let the world know Glendale's on the map,
That we are awake as onward we float,
And for "Tige," let him continue his nap.

Sure "Tige" pay your taxes at home,
Why growl at what fate has decreed?
Lay down, be good, we'll toss you a bone
Although we may not fancy your breed.

ARE YOU A LOYAL AMERICAN?

Yes, the Evening News stands firmly for Glendale continuing an independent municipality. It is the patriotic thing to do. The man who cannot stand for the perpetuation of the United States Government, for the perpetuation of his state government, for the perpetuation of his county government and for the perpetuation of his city government is not much of an American. The Evening News is truly an American publication, gentle reader. Notice if you will how Los Angeles city papers stand for the perpetuation of their city government, and it is these papers through whose columns so much of this annexation propaganda finds its way. Every additional piece of territory annexed gives more business to the central part of Los Angeles city, and takes it away from the annexed part.

The fellow who proclaims that the citizens of Glendale are not mentally able to take care of their own interests and municipal suicide is the only remedy, must do some explaining to the Evening News, before his proclamation will be considered as genuine. Such an attitude is abnormal and would indicate disloyalty to democratic form of government.

Fleming Stone characters that appear in other stories written by her of the same sort.

The "Bar Twenty" series by Mulford is also in the lot. These include "Bar Twenty," "Bar Twenty Days," "Hop Along Cassidy" and "Buck Peters, Ranchman."

Another of Harry Leon Wilson's Red Gap stories which will delight his big circle of admirers is "Ma Pettingill."

"The Man Whom Nobody Knew" is the story of a man who enlisted because he was a failure. The reconstruction of his life, appearance and character brought about by his war experiences make a most entertaining narrative.

"Room No. Three" is another of Anna Katherine Green's famous mystery stories which is sure to find readers who will recommend it.

"Our American Wonderland" is by George Wharton James, who has visited Glendale several times and won friends here. This is pronounced a wonderfully interesting book of travel.

"And They Thought We Wouldn't Fight" is by Floyd Gibbons. In the multitude of war books that now are passed this, it is predicted, will live, for its popularity has never waned.

"The Solitary House" in its title suggests the mystery story it proves to be. It is by an English author, E. R. Punshon, and is said to be intensely interesting by those who have sampled its pages.

To the department of poetry has been added Rudyard Kipling's "The Years Between," also a collection of his best verse.

"Wild Youth" by Sir Gilbert Parker is another vehicle for those pictures of Northern Canada in which this writer so excels. It will be enjoyed.

"The Tin Soldier" by Temple Bailey, and "Good Sports" by Higgins Prouty, author of "The Star in the Window," are recommended by those who have dipped into them as very pleasant fiction.

"Eyes of the Blind" is one more mystery story. It is by Arthur Roche and has quite a following.

"The Land Girl's Love Story" is peculiarly suitable for summer reading as the heroine is somewhat of a farmerette. It is by Berta Ruck.

"Why Joan?" by Eleanor Kelley is described as a very sweet little romance and the same characterization fits "His Friend, Miss McFarland," by Kate Langley Boshier, author of the well known "Mary Carey."

"Fighting Byng" is a tale of secret service pertaining to the war and is by A. Stone. There is no dearth of plot.

"Her Black Stone" by George Gibbs is a story of mystery invested with all the charm an Oriental setting can impart.

"The Cricket" is by Marjorie Benton Cooke, author of the popular "Bambi" and is more or less of the same charming pattern of girl.

"Flexible Ferdinand" by Julie Lippman, author of the "Martha" books, and "The Red Signal" by Grace Lutz, are both pronounced nice romances by trustworthy readers. The last named is enlivened by considerable humor which must be read to be appreciated.

Secret service work seems to exert a great fascination over both authors and readers and a contribution to that line of fiction is "The Man with the Club Foot," which will no doubt be in request.

Hooray! A beam of sunshine pierces the clouds of gloom that have engulfed the "booze hounds" with the approach of midnight, June 30, when rigid and radical prohibition becomes effective.

July 1 is to be National Buttermilk Day!

The United States department of agriculture, which officially announces the glad tidings, also states, just as officially, that good old buttermilk is one of the best drinks you could possibly guzzle.

Why, it's full of nutrition, palatable, full of "zest" and "vim." So says Uncle Sam's document. What more do you want?

You don't have to take it "straight," says the government document, although it is excellent just that way. There are many delicious combinations. The juice of two or three lemons in a quart of buttermilk, with sugar to taste, makes a fine drink—a sort of rickey, or cream fizz, as it were.

Lemon or orange juice, eggs and sugar, may be combined with buttermilk in the preparation of a delicious frozen dainty.

Try this combination: To a stein of buttermilk add a dash of paprika. Put a slice of lemon over the edge of the stein and start a couple of Maraschino cherries afloat on a piece of ice in this ambrosial combination.

Aside from its value as a beverage and food, buttermilk is the best little germ chaser that ever galloped through the intricacies of your system in mad and headlong pursuit of germs.

Many organisms in the human system tend to hasten senility. Bacteria that originate in milk and make it buttermilk war on these organisms.

WELCOMING SOLDIERS

About thirty relatives of the Newcomb family of Downey enjoyed a reunion Sunday to celebrate the return of Corporal W. Newcomb, a brother of Mrs. L. T. Rowley of this city, who, with her husband and children, was a guest. Miss McKellar of Downey, assisted by her sister, Mrs. T. A. McGee, was hostess at an old-fashioned dinner of fried chicken with all the accessories proper to such a feast, the tables being spread out of doors beneath the shade trees of the homestead which has been in the family since 1870.

Corporal Newcomb saw actual service in four different army activities. He went over with a replacement division which was assigned to the regulars and which fought at Chateau Thierry and later in the Argonne, where he was severely wounded after having had some wonderful escapes. Before that he had been in a scout brigade. He had some wonderful stories to tell of the astonishing accuracy of German machine gunners and snipers. They had wonderful field glasses, he said, and did amazing team work. One man would use the glasses and at a touch his companion would fire with such accuracy that once when the corporal lifted his head from the shelter of a clump of earth, a shot came instantly which penetrated his helmet. In this scouting duty it was his business to locate machine guns and, of course, he was exposed to their fire. He described how the bullets flew past them like a swarm of bees with much the same sort of humming. Once he was shot in the thumb, but otherwise came through unhurt beyond being knocked down by shell explosions and pounded with clods of earth. This

MR. AND MRS. WARREN ROBERTS
ENTHUSIASTIC OVER EXPERIENCE ON RIM OF THE VALLEY

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Roberts returned Sunday from their auto tour to the Yosemite full of enthusiasm over what they had seen and the good times they enjoyed in the wonderland of America. They went by way of Madeira Raymond, passing through the old-time mining camp of Grub Gulch, made famous in Bret Harte's stories. Spending the night at Fish Camp, they got an early morning start for the Mariposa Grove of big trees (Sequoia Gigantea), the oldest trees in the world, trees whose girth is so enormous that it dwarfs their height and though they rise 200 to 250 feet in air, they appear short. They took time enough to thoroughly inspect the grove and gaze upon the "Grizzly Giant," the most enormous tree on earth, and its tree-fellows to which names have been given to identify them. Leaving the grove they started onward toward the valley and when they reached Chinquapin took the road to Glacier Point, where they spent the night at the very comfortable hotel and then found a camping place. So delighted were they with the fresh, cool mountain air at that elevation (7297 feet), and the magnificent view of the valley 3000 feet below, that they remained for almost a week, taking in the sights and enjoying the bonfire at night of pine cones which is pushed over the cliff at 9:30 every evening when it has burned to embers, to make a cascade of fire for the pleasure of the watchers below.

About seven miles from Glacier Point on the rim of the valley, they found wonderful fishing in the stream which is fed from the waters of Bridal Veil Falls and there they caught all the rainbow trout they could eat. This fishing ground was a little off the regular beat of travel, hence its stock of trout. Of course they descended to the valley, but found it very warm and somewhat disappointing after the panorama they had enjoyed from the rim, and they remained only long enough to make a tour of the floor of the Yosemite and complete their collection of snap shots, of which they have quite an album which they are exhibiting to friends who want to know where they have been and what they saw. While at Glacier Point they visited Big Dome (8117 feet high), where an observation post has been erected from which another wonderful view can be obtained. To those contemplating a trip to Yosemite the Roberts recommend a stay on the rim rather than in the valley below. The wild flowers encountered in the course of their trail wanderings were wonderfully beautiful, according to Mrs. Roberts, and they also saw considerable other wild life, being fortunate enough to get kodak views of deer they met on the way. They came home via Wawona, where a fine, modern hotel has replaced the old-fashioned hostelry which the Washburn Brothers made famous. There they enjoyed to the full the outdoor plunge and the use of the golf links, and then came home via "Coarse Gold" to Fresno and on to Glendale.

MRS. MAUDE KAHLER WEDS

A very quiet but a perfect wedding was celebrated Saturday evening at the Los Angeles Athletic Club when Mrs. Maude Kahler, who has been a resident of this city and who has many friends here, became the bride of Thomas G. Kennedy of Los Angeles, Vice-President of the Southwestern Fruit Company, the ceremony being performed by Judge Chesbro, of Los Angeles, an old friend of the contracting parties, who, with Mrs. Chesbro, was one of the guests.

A ten-course dinner was given the bridal party by William McShane, president of the company with which Mr. Kennedy is connected. It was served in the blue room of the Athletic Club, the table being centered with a basket of lovely bride roses and sweet peas of many shades. The dinner was very beautiful in all its appointments with a handsome hand-painted place card for each of the twelve guests.

Following the dinner, guests accompanied the bride and groom to the Southern Pacific station where they took the train for San Francisco and where they were properly showered with rice and good wishes. The bride was still wearing her wedding gown, a very handsome brocade taffeta of nigger brown, with a small hat to match, and was carrying a bouquet of tea roses and maidenhair fern, and her friends declare she looked very pretty.

The Kennedys will be guests at the Palace Hotel for a week or more and on their return will be at home to their friends in the Wilshire District, where Mrs. Kennedy's son and daughter, Merle and Merna Kahler, will be with them.

happened so often that he came to feel immune until his time came in the Argonne. Then he was wounded by shrapnel from an exploding shell. He was lying in a hole. Had he been sitting upright he would have been killed. Other service men in the Downey party were Robert Rowley and Wallace McKellar, who was an ensign in the navy. Mrs. Rowley expects her brother to visit her in the near future.

A party of Glendale fishermen, which included Mr. and Mrs. Jack Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Fortunato, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Gilman and their children, Francis and Barbara, went to Santa Monica and fished until day-break, getting home in time for an early breakfast. Wonderful Opportunities in the Automobile Field

The history of American industries shows nothing which can compare with the rapid growth of automobile manufacturing. In the past few years a wonderful industry has been developed. In the United States alone there are over 500 factories at work on automobile construction, representing a capital of about $2,000,000,000. Besides there are about 32,000 dealers in the United States employing several hundreds of thousands of men and women.

The development of automobile delivery trucks and light wagons is proceeding rapidly and every year sees the introduction of new makes in large numbers.

The demand from factories, garages, and salesmen for trained men is a direct result of this marvelous growth. The supply of such men is small—their pay correspondingly high. This is the field of opportunity you can enter through the sure, easy Home-Study Courses of the International Correspondence Schools OF SCRANTON, PA.

Hundreds of thousands have proved it. The designer of the Packard "Twin Six" and hundreds of other engineers have climbed to success through I.C.S. help. For 28 years young men in offices, stores, shops, factories, mines, railroads—in every line of technical and commercial work—have been winning promotion and increased salaries through the I.C.S. Over 130,000 men are getting ready right now in the I.C.S. way for bigger jobs ahead. No matter what your handicap or how limited your means, the I.C.S. have a plan to meet your circumstances. No matter how small your previous education, the simply written, wonderfully illustrated I.C.S. textbooks make it easy to learn.

Co-Designer Liberty Motor

I take great pleasure in recommending your Courses to any young man who is ambitious and anxious to get the necessary education to enable him to make the most of his opportunities.

JESSE G. VINCENT,
Vice-President of Engineering, Packard Motor Car Company, Detroit, Mich.

Complete Automobile Course

If you want to become an expert automobile driver, chauffeur, or mechanic you should study the I.C.S. As an automobile owner you cannot afford to be without the knowledge contained in this Course, whether you drive your car or employ a chauffeur. REMINISCENCES OF THE BEEF-STEAK FEED

By the Village Poet
The shades of night were falling fast,
As through a California village passed,
A crowd of Masons to the park had massed,
The victuals there all stood aghast,
As the hungry boys in lots were cast,
To eat the steaks that looked so vast.

Griffith Park just looked its best
As the good old sun sank in the west
The good things all were stowed to rest

Beneath the jacket or the vest
Digestion fought the greatest test
And not a man was found non-est.

Potatoes had to boil and bake
The bovine beast who's life at stake,
Lean, juicy steaks decided to make,
The boys whose hunger could not fake
Nor lose the chance of stomach-ache
All night long to lay awake.

Prominent personages had come to dare
Just to attack the good old bill of fare
A savory aroma filled the air
The wild beast roared within its lair
And good old Bruin could not bear
To see such a hungry bunch that had drifted there.

Unity Lodge was well represented
By the Past and the Present Masters.
A tower of strength was there invested
To deal the steaks among the fasters.
Spuds and salads and the cookies
Pleased both civilians and the rookies.

Coffee with that aroma flavoring taint,
Tempted the sinner and the saint
Ice cream and lemonade were handy,
The baseball game was just a dandy.
Tongue cannot tell all the wondrous tale
About Unity Lodge or dear Glendale.

They struck the trail in Indian style,
And thus they trudged for many a mile.

When sore and weary down they sat,
To rest a while and have a chat.
One said to the other whose face was pale,
"When will we get into Glendale?"

The other replied in tones rather sober,
"I think we can make it by the first of October."

Just then an auto hove into sight,
To them it was a great delight.
They grabbed the driver by each hand,
Pleading, "Take us home to Canaan's land."

The driver, being both good and kind,
Said, "Jump right into that seat behind.
You've touched my heart, now here's my hand,
I'll take you to that happy-land.

I, too, reside in that sweet vale,
On earth, there is but one Glendale."
When in the car they were heard to sing,
In tones that made the welkin ring.

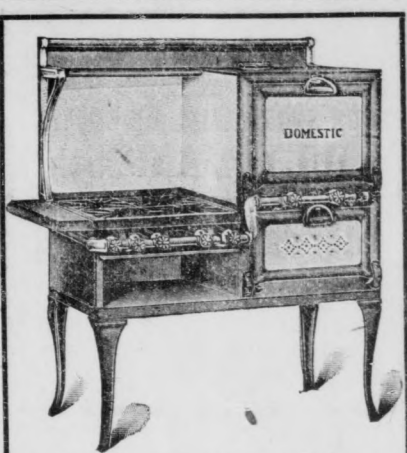

"Soon we'll be in our Glendale home,
Never again from it to roam."
I often see these people on the street,
They're very nice to those they meet.

But a warning to each Glendaleite,
Unless you're looking for a fight,
Don't mention minnow or crawfish car,
For if you do you'll get a jar.

For be you bad or be you good,
Upon your head you will be stood.

"THE MAROONED FISHERMEN"

Two Glendale men that I well know,
Up into the mountains a fishing did go.

When I warned them not to make the trip,
They looked back at me and gave me some lip.

They said they knew what they were about,
And soon would return with a carload of trout.

When I asked if their car would climb a hill,
They said, "Do you want to give us a chill?"

"Climb, indeed, just wait and see,
This swell car can climb a tree.

And just to prove that she was no runt,
On the return trip she tried the stunt.

My friendly warning they did not heed,
They left Glendale at race-track speed.

Their rushing car panting for breath,
Scared the big fishes almost to death.

They scooted away clear out of sight,
And never returned to give them a bite.

But seven little minnows, who had not had that training,
In the open water still were remaining.

On these they looked with a longing eye,
They thought they'd make a very nice fry.

And they were brought with gentle cajole,
To come and be friendly, and swing from the pole.

The silly little fishes soon took the bait,
It was their undoing, 'tis said to relate.

Into the pan with some grease they were thrown,
Soon they were cooked right down to the bone.

The flesh from the bones they did separate,
Each took a portion onto his plate.

And as each morsel rolled over their tongue,
They thought of a banquet, of which poets have sung.

With a smack of the lip and a wink of the eye,
They bade those minnows a fond good-bye.

They said, "This feast will do for to-day,

day,
We'll pack our traps and start right away."

As the car started down on its homeward spin,
They looked at each other with a satisfied grin.

With their feast on fish they were content,
Every care to the wind they sent.

As they glided along with merry talk,
They never thought that their car would balk.

Soon they came to a very steep rise,
